📑 Contents

- 📖 Book 1: Influence by Robert Cialdini
- 💰 Book 2: Cash Advertising
- 🧠 Book 3: Breakthrough Advertising
- 🤖 Book 4: The 7-Day AI Action Plan for Online Trainers

📖 Book 1: Influence by Robert Cialdini 0:00

- Core concept: the seven weapons of influence, with reciprocity highlighted as the most relevant for online business growth
  - Reciprocity: when you give someone something free that they genuinely find valuable, they subconsciously feel an obligation to repay you
    - This is why, Carter argues, the people who make the most money online also put out the most free, genuinely helpful content
- Practical takeaway for fitness coaches:
  - Do NOT gatekeep information or hoard expertise
  - Give as much free value as possible
  - People will then pay you to help them with the implementation of what you've freely shared

💰 Book 2: Cash Advertising 0:45

- Core concept: never sell your actual product or service — sell the outcome the customer will get from it
- The book identifies eight core desires that truly motivate buyers
- Fitness coaching example:
  - Don't sell "diet and exercise" — nobody wants to buy that directly
  - Sell what diet and exercise does for them:
    - More energy to keep up with their children

    - Living longer to see their grandchildren
    - Looking better at a high school reunion
- Takeaway: position your offer around the emotional and life outcomes, not the mechanics of the service

🧠 Book 3: Breakthrough Advertising 1:08

- Described as a classic marketing text
- Core concept: levels of awareness — prospects exist at different stages of knowing you and your offer, and your marketing message must match their level
    - Cold audience (low awareness): telling a stranger to "buy my [product]" will not work — they don't know who you are
    - Warm/hot audience (high awareness): a direct "buy my" call-to-action can work for someone who already knows you, understands your offer, and has seen substantial evidence that you can help them achieve their goals
- Takeaway: tailor the sophistication and directness of your marketing message to where the prospect actually is in their journey with you
