What once was a years inventory is now gone in hours #businessgrowth #motivation #sucessjourney

Channel: Greg Lav · Published: Oct 30, 2026 · Watch: https://www.youtube.com/shorts/K1WDq5EROOU Source: full transcript

📋 Executive Summary

Greg Lavicia stands amid 900,000 units of Bloom energy drink — only 12 hours of daily sales — and reflects on how his company grew from a tiny first order in 2019 to this staggering scale by 2026.

📑 Contents

- 🧃 The Scale of Today's Inventory
- 📈 The Journey from 2019 to 2026
- 🔥 Motivational Closing Message

🧃 The Scale of Today's Inventory 0:00

- Greg is standing in front of 900,000 units of Bloom energy drink
  - This quantity represents only 12 hours — half a day — of total daily sales
  - The visual is used intentionally as a daily reminder of how far the company has come

📈 The Journey from 2019 to 2026 0:00

- Greg Lavicia is 31 years old and co-founded the company with his wife
  - The company was started 8 years ago
  - Bloom energy drink specifically was launched 2.5 years ago, in July 2024
- Their very first order for Bloom was less than 1% of the 900,000 units shown
  - That tiny first order was enough to last them several months of inventory
  - That was back in 2019
- By 2026, what once lasted months now sells in half a day

> The contrast between a first order lasting months and 900,000 units being just 12 hours of sales captures the exponential scale of their growth.

🔥 Motivational Closing Message 0:24

- Greg frames 2026 as a wide-open opportunity — "the doors of the arena are wide open"
- There are 100 days remaining in the year at the time of filming
- His call to action: push hard, be creative, and achieve massive success
  - "This is the best feeling in the world" — describing the satisfaction of building something from nothing
- Core takeaway: only ambitious goals are worth pursuing