

How To Get Ahead Of 99% Of Men In 2026 (Body + Business) EP 319

Channel: Brandon Carter · Published: Jul 29, 2026 · Watch: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=cTZTFF_djS4 Source: full transcript

Executive Summary

Brandon Carter shares three concrete steps anyone can start today to pull ahead of nearly everyone by year-end: log 1,000 hours of deliberate practice on one skill, replace self-defeating mantras with identity-based ones, and shift focus from lagging to leading indicators. He also walks through a full online trainer monetization system using Instagram reels, AI content tools, and Go High Level CRM.

Contents

-  Step 1: The 1,000-Hour Rule
-  Step 2: Stop Reciting Mediocre Mantras
-  Step 3: Track Leading Indicators
-  Market Recap with Greg
-  How to Make Money as an Online Trainer in 2026
-  Q&A Super Chats
-  Announcements & Resources

Step 1: The 1,000-Hour Rule 7:37

- The popular "10,000-hour rule" is for world-class mastery — you don't need that to get rich or beat most people
 - 1,000 hours of deliberate practice in almost any skill makes you better than nearly everyone
 - Most people try something once or twice, don't get immediate results, and quit — that's the gap you exploit
- The math: 4 hours/day of practice = ~1,000 hours in 8–9 months
 - Hours don't need to be consecutive — e.g., 2 hrs in the morning + 2 hrs in the afternoon works fine
 - Block these times as recurring, non-negotiable calendar appointments
 - If you miss a day, make it up within 48 hours across the next two sessions
- Quality comes FROM quantity — there is no shortcut around reps
 - "There's really no such thing as natural talent. Everybody who's really, really good at something put in a lot of hours."
 - Examples: guitar, copywriting, sales, content creation — all respond to 1,000 hours

- Practice ≠ studying — reading and watching YouTube doesn't count toward your 1,000 hours
 - "I can read as much as I want about swimming, but I'm not going to get better till I get in the water."
 - Studying is supplementary; only doing the actual thing counts
- Skill stacking: once you hit 1,000 hours on one skill, move to the next
 - Don't try to develop multiple skills simultaneously — it dilutes focus and extends the timeline
 - Example stack for an online trainer: content creation first → then sales (1,000 hrs each)
 - For sales practice, use role play when you can't get real calls — Brandon's team does objection-handling role play every morning, has done so for 8 years
- Tracking system: Brandon uses a Notion database with a spreadsheet that logs hours per skill daily and totals them automatically
 - Goal column shows progress toward 1,000; when it hits 1,000, move to the next skill
 - "Every nine months, it's like a new version of me is born."
- Action step:
 - Pick ONE skill
 - Open your calendar and block 4 hours/day as a recurring task
 - Start tracking hours in a spreadsheet or Notion database
 - Make it up within 48 hours if you miss a day

Step 2: Stop Reciting Mediocre Mantras 21:14 ---

- Mediocre mantras are the phrases average people use to justify breaking discipline
 - Examples: "One slice of cake won't hurt," "You can live a little," "I trained two days in a row, I deserve a day off," "Everything in moderation"
 - They come from yourself AND from people around you at social functions
- Why they're dangerous — the behavioral conditioning argument:
 - When you're supposed to hold the line and instead give in, you are rewarding yourself (treating yourself) for the bad behavior
 - You are an animal; you positively reinforce whatever behavior you reward
 - "You trained yourself to be a [weak person]." Next time the same temptation appears, it will be harder to resist because you've already conditioned the failure response
 - One slip doesn't kill you, but it dampens your discipline — the slope is genuinely slippery
- The identity-based alternative: change the mantra → change the identity
 - Brandon's example: "Candy is for women and children" — said out loud, even at his son's birthday party
 - When he sleeps past 6 a.m. for any reason: "I'm mad at myself. [Weak] behavior — you're better than this." Internal pain makes recurrence less likely
 - "Mediocre mantras are the battle cries of the inconsistent."
- Action steps (next 21 days):

- Write down your top 3 mediocre mantras
- Under each one, write the opposite behavior/statement
 - Example counter-mantra: "The first step is the worst step" (the first lapse starts the slippery slope)
- Every time a mediocre mantra surfaces — from yourself or others — say the counter-mantra out loud, no exceptions
- "Words are just thoughts verbalized. What you say is a representation of how you think. We need to change the thoughts."

Step 3: Track Leading Indicators 31:23

- Lagging indicators = results; they just show what already happened
 - Examples: money in your bank account, weight on the scale, monthly revenue, how you look today, a championship trophy
- Leading indicators = daily actions that cause the results
 - Fat loss leading indicators: hitting your calorie target, hitting your macros, daily steps, sleep quality
 - Business leading indicators: leads generated per day, content posted per day, DMs sent, call booking rate, close rate
- Why leading indicators beat lagging indicators for motivation:
 - Big goals feel insurmountable when you stare at the gap — leading indicators make every day a winnable game
 - "If you hit your calories every day, you wouldn't even have to look at the scale. We would know next month you'd be significantly lighter — with mathematical certainty."
 - Each day you hit the leading indicators = a daily victory → builds confidence → compounds belief → gets results faster
- Business example — diagnosing struggling students:
 - Student only making $5K/month → Brandon immediately asks about leading indicators, not revenue
 - "How many DMs are you sending per day? What percentage of leads book calls? How many calls do you have a month? What's your close rate?"
 - If leading indicators are low, the low revenue is expected — fix the inputs, not the outputs
- Salesperson example:
 - Brandon doesn't care about one lost sale — he cares about the average over a significant period
 - If a salesperson is distressed over one lost call, it signals they don't have enough volume (too few calls = each one feels high-stakes)
 - Sports analogy: NFL is one-game elimination (luck plays huge role); NBA is best-of-seven (best team usually wins) — life is a series, not a single game
- Apple orchard analogy: planting seeds and checking for apples a week later is exactly what most people do with goals — the roots are growing underground; stop digging them up
- Action steps (next 30 days):

- Write down the top 3 leading indicators for your current main goal
- Track them every single day
- For fitness: also weigh yourself once a week (lagging indicator check-in)
- For business: check revenue monthly, not daily
- After ~30 days of consistent leading indicator hits, the lagging indicators will visibly begin to move

Market Recap with Greg 44:08

- Greg attended a CMT conference at Piper Sandler — money managers discussing stocks, ETFs, and sector rotation
- Fed watch tool (CME Group): Fed meeting the next day
 - 70% chance rates stay the same; 30% chance of a rate hike
 - If the Fed hikes, Greg warns the market could flash crash — watch 2 p.m. Eastern the next day
 - Historical norm was 90–99% certainty; 30% hike probability is higher-than-average uncertainty
 - If rates stay the same or are cut, market likely rallies; if support breaks + hike, buy puts 1–2 weeks out
 - Potential S&P drop on a hike: 3–5%
- Oil prices: slightly down, which gives the Fed room to hold rates; if oil spikes, inflation concerns force a hike
- Stock picks mentioned (not financial advice):
 - Microsoft (MSFT): earnings tomorrow; Greg is still long, holding through earnings; software sector starting to recover
 - IGV (software ETF): showing early recovery
 - Service Now (NOW): long-term leap calls and leap call spreads; fair value $160, currently ~$110
 - Johnson & Johnson: made good money, at all-time highs, nice breakout
 - Medtronic (MDT): 200% return overnight on a trade; breakout on volume; Greg likes it
 - XOP (oil & gas ETF): CMT conference attendees like it; one or two more down days = buy signal; pays dividends
 - Kraken (KRAK): watch list; like a dip buy at $50
 - Gold / GLTR (gold, silver, platinum, other metals ETF): wait 2 more weeks for a bottom; gold may flush once more; money managers starting to accumulate first tranche, hoping for a dip to buy more
 - Bitcoin: "not doing anything, same old story"
- Victory Trades program plug: student Chase joined 2 weeks ago, learned options trading, now making $300/day consistently from trade alerts; 200% gain example on Medtronic

How to Make Money as an Online Trainer in 2026 1:11:36

- Brandon's credentials: $20M+ made online over the last few years; taught 15,000+ students to grow online businesses, primarily fitness niche
- The three-step funnel:
 - Step 1 — Make content → generate engagement

- Step 2 — Start conversations with people who engaged
- Step 3 — Book sales calls from conversations → close them

Content Strategy — The Engagement Matrix

- Platform: Instagram (IG) makes online trainers the most money; IG Reels get the most engagement
- Followers don't matter anymore — one good video can get millions of views with 30 followers
 - Example 1: 3.7M views, only 158 followers
 - Example 2: 17M views, only 96 followers
 - Example 3: 3.1M views, 30K followers (outlier video)
- Strategy: find outlier videos (10x views-to-followers ratio) and recreate them in your own style
 - Search manually on Instagram for your niche (e.g., "men's fat loss")
 - Use Sort Feed (Chrome extension) for extra data — views, follower counts, engagement metrics
 - Brandon has pre-done the work: Viral Content Vault (link in description) — a Notion database of ~100+ outlier videos, updated continuously
- How to recreate an outlier without copying:
 - Use Sort Feed's transcription button to get the video's transcript
 - Paste transcript into Gemini, ChatGPT, or Claude with this prompt:
 - "I have a transcript from an Instagram reel that I want to recreate in my own voice, with my own words, with my own methodology. I'm going to paste the transcript here and I want you to interview me asking me one question at a time until you have enough information to rewrite the reel in my own words."
 - AI interviews you, then outputs a script in your voice
- Posting volume: 2–3 reels per day based on outlier formats
 - Over 30 days = 30–60 reels proven to have viral potential
 - "I promise you, you'll get tons of engagement off of that."

Converting Engagement to Leads — The CTA & Automation System

- Set up a CTA (call to action) in the reel: tell viewers to comment a specific word to receive a free guide
- Automate the DM response using Go High Level (GHL) — recommended over ManyChat (more robust, replaces more tools)
 - When someone comments the trigger word, GHL automatically DMs them a link
- Don't just send the free guide link directly — send them to a landing page instead
 - Landing page collects: first name, last name, email, phone number
 - Then they can download the free guide
 - Example free guide: "How to track calories and macros with AI"
- After the opt-in form, send them to a second page with a video:
 - Video explains the free guide AND pitches booking a 1-on-1 coaching call

- Calendar booking (built inside GHL — replaces Calendly) is embedded on this page

Multi-Touch Follow-Up System

- GHL enables multiple follow-up channels simultaneously:
 - Instagram DM (managed from inside GHL — no need to use IG's native DM)
 - SMS text (people respond to texts more than DMs)
 - Email — the average online business makes 30% of sales from email; ignoring email = missing ~30% of potential income
 - Organize leads inside GHL by stage: new lead → conversation started → call booked → sold
- Why this matters especially for small accounts:
 - Relying only on Instagram DM = one shot at booking the call
 - With GHL: landing page self-book + DM + text + email = multiple shots
 - "If I had a small following and wanted to make as much money as possible, I want as many shots as I can take."
- Students making the most money ($10K–$100K+/month) all use a system like this; hustle-only DM approach caps around $5–10K/month
- Go High Level free 30-day trial available via the link in the description (longer trial than signing up directly); GHL team will do a free onboarding Zoom call to help set everything up

Q&A Super Chats 54:10

- Pre-call cognitive performance (Dream Hopper): Viewer slams 2–3 cans of Celsius for high-ticket sales job — Brandon recommends adding exogenous ketones (specifically Ketone Aid, despite tasting terrible)
 - Ketogenic diet was originally developed in the 1920s to treat childhood epilepsy — it heals/supports brain function
 - Ketones are produced when liver converts fat to fuel in absence of glucose; strongly support cognitive function
 - Avoid Adderall/Modafinil for sales — they make you talk too much; in sales you should talk only 20% of the time, letting the prospect talk 80% so they sell themselves
 - Also mentioned: cognitive peptides like Semax (limited personal experience)
- Victory Vision Planner update (George): No new content added; what viewers may have seen was Brandon connecting his Notion to Claude (Anthropic) to generate a live graphical artifact — tutorial planned
- Book recommendations (Alex): After loving Awaken the Giant Within by Tony Robbins (read at age 17, reread multiple times)
 - Ready, Fire, Aim by Michael Masterson — business; zero to $100M roadmap, written by someone who did it
 - The ONE Thing by Gary Keller — achievement and goal accomplishment; source of Brandon's 4-hour focus block concept
 - Relentless by Tim Grover — mindset; tattooed on Brandon's arm

- Deep Work by Cal Newport — focus and distraction-free work; "even more important now"
- Ego Is the Enemy and The Obstacle Is the Way by Ryan Holiday — two of his best works
- Goal prioritization framework (Ra): How much effort to give secondary goals?
 - All goals should be congruent — organized around one main goal
 - Framework — five goal types:
 - Main goal (center) — the primary objective (e.g., 10K/month as online trainer)
 - Offensive support goals — directly accelerate the main goal (e.g., 100K followers, 10% body fat)
 - Defensive support goals — prevent the main goal from being derailed (e.g., health/fitness, getting a babysitter to free up 2 hrs/day)
 - Altruistic result goals — things you do for others that result from achieving the main goal (e.g., 50 client transformations, buying mom a house)
 - Selfish result goals — personal rewards from achieving the main goal (e.g., quit your job)
 - Anything outside these five quadrants goes on the back burner until the main goal is achieved
 - Exception: if the main goal is small (e.g., buy a G-Shock watch), you can juggle more simultaneously
- Waking up on time without snoozing (Stephen):
 - Put the alarm far enough away that you must get out of bed to turn it off — Brandon has done this for over a decade
 - House shoes and robe are right by the door — slip them on and leave the bedroom immediately
 - Pre-workout prepared the night before — drink it almost immediately upon waking
 - First 30 minutes: slow movement (urinate, put in contacts, shave, shower) while caffeine enters bloodstream (~30 minutes to fully absorb)
 - By the time shower is done + morning routine complete, caffeine is working and music is playing — ready to go

Announcements & Resources 3:15

- Free live training — Sunday at 2:00 p.m. Eastern: how to make an extra $300–$500/day as an online trainer using AI (covering content creation, lead generation, sales, client training with AI); link in description
- Ripped Road Map — free AI-powered diet assessment tool; input height, weight, gender, photo, and goals → AI calculates daily calorie and macro targets; adjustable fat/carb ratios; link in description
- Viral Content Vault — Notion database of 100+ outlier Instagram videos (10x views-to-followers); continuously updated; link in description
- Go High Level — free 30-day trial via description link (longer trial than going direct); replaces ManyChat, Calendly, and most CRM tools
- Victory Trades — Greg's options trading program; includes options courses + live trade alerts to your phone + live trading sessions; link in description
- Show schedule: every Tuesday and Thursday at 5:30 p.m. Eastern