Can You Get Shredded Eating the Same Meals Every Day? 0:00

- The short answer is yes — you absolutely can get shredded eating the same meals repeatedly
 - Brandon draws on 27 years of personal training experience to back this claim
 - Observation: the people he knows who are in the best shape tend to eat the same things most frequently

Why Repetition Works: Eliminating Guesswork 0:22

- Eating the same meals daily "takes the guesswork out of it"
 - When meals are fixed, you automatically hit the same macros and calories every single day
 - Consistency in intake is the underlying reason these people maintain great shape
- No complex tracking or daily decision-making is required once the meals are established

A Note on Gender Differences and Variety 0:10

- Brandon notes that in his experience, the people eating the same meals most consistently are typically men
 - His observation: women tend to prefer more variety in their diet
 - He uses a lighthearted analogy to illustrate the point: "This is why you have over 50 pairs of shoes and I wear black Air Force 1's almost every day"
- This is framed as a general pattern from personal experience, not a universal rule
