

Best Sales Books

Channel: Brandon Carter · Published: Aug 06, 2026 · Watch: <https://www.youtube.com/shorts/94GOEBzKzgc> Source: full transcript

Executive Summary

Brandon Carter runs a head-to-head bracket of the most popular sales books. After eliminating every competitor, How to Win Friends and Influence People emerges as his all-time favorite for mastering the human side of sales.

Contents

-  The Sales Book Bracket Tournament
-  The Winner & Why

The Sales Book Bracket Tournament 0:00

- Carter runs a rapid head-to-head elimination format, picking a winner from each matchup
 - Round 1: Spin Selling vs. The Challenger Sale → The Challenger Sale
 - Round 2: The Challenger Sale vs. To Sell Is Human → The Challenger Sale
 - Round 3: The Challenger Sale vs. The Little Red Book of Selling → The Challenger Sale
 - Round 4: The Challenger Sale vs. Never Split the Difference → Never Split the Difference
 - Round 5: Never Split the Difference vs. Influence → Influence
 - Round 6: Influence vs. Predictable Revenue → Influence
 - Round 7: Influence vs. Gap Selling → Influence
 - Round 8: Influence vs. Fanatical Prospecting → Influence
 - Round 9: Influence vs. The Psychology of Selling → Influence
 - Round 10: Influence vs. How to Win Friends and Influence People → How to Win Friends and Influence People
 - Round 11: How to Win Friends and Influence People vs. The Ultimate Sales Machine → How to Win Friends and Influence People
 - Round 12: How to Win Friends and Influence People vs. The Greatest Salesman → How to Win Friends and Influence People
- Carter confirms he has personally read all of the books in the bracket

The Winner & Why 0:47

- How to Win Friends and Influence People by Dale Carnegie is Carter's clear favorite sales book

- His reasoning centers on the human element of sales:
 - "I think that that book is the best book on actually dealing with people"
 - The title itself encapsulates a core truth about sales — it's fundamentally about winning people over and influencing them
 - He views these skills as extending well beyond sales: "That's a big part of life"
- Carter believes the book's lessons are so foundational he thinks "they should teach that book in high schools"