

Have you tried this new shoulder exercise?

Channel: Brandon Carter · Published: Aug 07, 2026 · Watch: https://www.youtube.com/shorts/Gzhk0_6Acyk Source: full transcript

Executive Summary

Brandon Carter shares freestanding handstand push-ups as his go-to daily shoulder exercise, practiced for 7 years, requiring no gym and promising bigger, wider shoulders with 3–4 sets to failure.

Contents

-  The Exercise: Freestanding Handstand Push-Ups
-  Prescription & Long-Term Results

The Exercise: Freestanding Handstand Push-Ups 0:00

- The movement is a freestanding handstand push-up — no wall, no gym equipment needed
 - Get into position on the floor, kick feet up into the air while balancing on hands
 - Perform a pressing motion: go up and down repeatedly from the balanced handstand position
 - Described as "super simple and effective"
- Goal: build bigger, wider shoulders
- Can be done at home with zero equipment

Prescription & Long-Term Results 0:23

- Recommended frequency: every day
- Sets: 3–4 sets per session
- Rep target: train to failure each set
- Brandon has personally performed this exercise for approximately 7 years
 - Calls it his "number one shoulder workout" and the "main thing" he does to build bigger shoulders
- Claimed outcome: "big, strong shoulders in no time"