Executive Summary

ZssBecker argues that AI is ushering in an era where solo introverts and tiny 2-3 person studios can build empires and generate massive revenue, making personal branding obsolete and small creative teams the biggest opportunity on earth.

Building a personal brand in 2026 is idiotic.

This is the era of the necked bearded one man AI empire, ran from mothers basement.

The age of the no-face creative introvert.

No sun. No human interaction. No dancing for likes.

Just a chat interface and a dream.
