A Message For UK Men

Channel: Onem · Published: Nov 12, 2026 · Watch: https://www.youtube.com/shorts/iuF0qzDYKfU Source: full transcript

📋 Executive Summary

Onem's founder argues the flashy "manosphere" era is dying and pitches a £2,000/year London membership club for men — focused on real networking, facilities, and community — launching once ~100 members sign up via Typeform.

🌅 The Old Manosphere Era Is Ending 0:00

- The founder observes a major cultural shift happening right now within the manosphere
  - Men are losing interest in performative wealth signalling — expensive cars, revving exhausts, Instagram edits
  - Specific example cited: "showing off with a quarter of a million pound car and revving the exhaust and being in an Instagram edit"
  - The prevailing mood around this content is now described as "soulless" and "selfish"
- His conclusion: the old era is essentially over and something new is replacing it

🏢 The Vision: Real-Life Facilities for Men 0:23

- The replacement for performative online culture is physical, real-world spaces built specifically for men
  - He paints a picture of a flagship facility "up in the hills" with a heated infinity pool overlooking the countryside
  - The purpose: men hanging out, networking, and doing business together in person
- The long-term brand vision is "mega facilities all around the world"
  - Described as somewhere you can drive to, decompress, and socialise with like-minded men
  - Positioned as a healthier alternative to partying/drinking — "civilized fun with people on your level"
  - Benefits framed as both mental health and business-focused

💷 London Location: Pricing & What's Included 0:48

- The first planned location is London, which the founder says "makes perfect sense" as a starting point
  - He has already visited London and done viewings of potential office spaces, describing some as "really good"
  - Search is ongoing — he will continue evaluating options to find the best fit
- Pricing:

Membership Type	Annual Cost
Standard Onem membership	£5,000/year
London regional membership (local only)	£2,000/year

- What the London membership includes:
  - Daily access to the facility, usable with friends
  - Networking opportunities with other members
  - Meeting rooms — positioned as an upgrade over taking clients to Starbucks or Costa Coffee
    - "Your clients are going to think, 'Wow, this guy's actually got it together'" — framed as a business credibility boost
  - Content creation facility for filming professional content
  - Free masterminds
    - Explicitly contrasted with paying £5,000 "to sit in a room with a bunch of guys who just circle jerk each other"
  - Use as a social space
- Everything is tailored specifically to what men want, described as a core differentiator of the brand

📋 How to Join & Launch Threshold 2:18

- This is framed as a second chance for UK men who missed the original founding membership 2.5 years ago
  - Those who didn't join then missed all the experiences Onem has delivered since
  - London is described as "getting in through the back door"
- Steps to register interest:
  - Fill out the Typeform linked in the description below the video
  - You will be added to a WhatsApp group with other London-based interested members
  - Once approximately 100 people are in the group, the location will officially launch

    > "Once we have around about 100 people in there, we're going to launch it. We're going to go live and this thing is going to be enormous."
- The founder closes the video on a country walk in the Cotswolds, reinforcing the "real experiences over Instagram flex" theme
