❌ Worst Book #1: The Alchemist 0:00

- Widely praised by others, but Brandon found it disappointing
 - Describes it as "a fable" with no actionable lessons
 - His exact criticism: "Nothing I can do today" after finishing it
- This experience led him to make a firm personal rule: stop reading fiction entirely

✅ Best Book #1: Ready, Fire, Aim 0:00

- Contrasted directly against The Alchemist as a "far superior book"
- Core value: breaks down exactly what an entrepreneur needs to do at each stage of business growth
 - Structured by level of entrepreneurship — not generic advice, but stage-specific guidance
- Brandon credits it with genuinely helping him move forward in his business

❌ Worst Book #2: The Power of Now 0:22

- Brandon didn't even finish it — stopped in chapter one
 - Reason: the author describes becoming so enlightened that he sat on a park bench for roughly a year

- Brandon's blunt take: "This is not for me. I don't never want to be so happy that I'm homeless on a park bench."
- Framed as a mindset incompatible with entrepreneurial drive and action

✓ Best Book #2: Pitch Anything 0:45

- His most-consumed book by a wide margin — estimates he has read and listened to the audiobook over 100 times combined
- Had his entire sales team read it
- Key insight on re-readability: "Every time I read it, I feel like I learn something new"
- Focused on sales and pitching — directly applicable to revenue generation

✗ Worst Book #3: The Tipping Point 1:08

- Brandon is actually a fan of Malcolm Gladwell — once stood in line to get Gladwell to autograph his copy of Outliers
- Despite that admiration, he feels The Tipping Point is over-long for the ideas it contains
 - His verdict: "Should have been like a blog post or a pamphlet"
 - Acknowledges this is a known Gladwell trait: "Y'all know he can be a bit long-winded"

✓ Best Book #3: Influence by Robert Cialdini 1:08

- Brandon's #1 recommended book for anyone asking about marketing
- Says it should be required reading for every entrepreneur
- Focused on the psychology of persuasion — foundational for sales, marketing, and business growth

📣 Brandon's Own Book Plug 1:08

- Promotes his own book: The 7-Day AI Action Plan
 - Topic: how to use AI to grow an online fitness business
 - How to get it: comment the word "action" on the video and he sends it directly
