

Habits to Burn Fat Faster

Channel: Brandon Carter · Published: Aug 20, 2026 · Watch: <https://www.youtube.com/shorts/S08HQGbRckQ> Source: full transcript

Executive Summary

Brandon Carter outlines key daily habits to become a "fat burning machine," focusing on calorie tracking, high step counts, protein prioritization, carb pairing, and a straightforward calorie target formula.

Contents

-  Habit 1: Track Your Calories
-  Habit 2: Get 20,000 Steps Per Day
-  Habit 3: Eat at Least 1 Gram of Protein Per Pound of Bodyweight
-  Habit 4: Never Eat Carbs Without Protein
-  Habit 5: Use the Bodyweight Calorie Formula
-  Call to Action

Habit 1: Track Your Calories 0:00

- Tracking calories is presented as non-negotiable for fat loss
 - "If you're not tracking your calories, you're kind of just hoping for the best. And hope is not a strategy."
- Brandon's anecdotal observation: everyone he's met who tracks calories is in great shape; everyone who is overweight does not track

Habit 2: Get 20,000 Steps Per Day 0:07

- A specific daily walking schedule is prescribed to hit 20,000 steps:
 - Walk 30 minutes upon waking
 - Walk 30 minutes after lunch
 - Walk 1 hour after work
 - During work, walk 10 minutes every hour
- Following this routine reliably produces 20,000 steps total

Habit 3: Eat at Least 1 Gram of Protein Per Pound of Bodyweight 0:24

- Target: 1 gram of protein per pound of bodyweight daily
- Two reasons given:

- Helps maintain muscle mass
- Protein has the highest thermic effect of any macronutrient — it burns the most calories through digestion

Habit 4: Never Eat Carbs Without Protein 0:33

- Always pair carbohydrates with protein in the same meal or snack
 - This keeps glucose (blood sugar) levels more stable
 - Stable glucose helps avoid energy spikes and crashes that can drive overeating

Habit 5: Use the Bodyweight Calorie Formula 0:39

- Simple formula for daily calorie intake:
 - Bodyweight (in pounds) × 10 = daily calorie target
 - Example: a 200 lb person would eat 2,000 calories per day
- Claim: following this formula will cause fat to "melt off"

Call to Action 0:46

- Brandon instructs viewers to comment "road map" to receive a framework showing exactly how to implement these habits