

I'm 43, Rich, Ripped & Happy: 10 Things I Wish I Knew at 25

Channel: Brandon Carter · Published: Jul 26, 2026 · Watch: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=X6QCIJxLSWY> Source: full transcript

Executive Summary

Brandon Carter, 43 — $20M+ earned, ~10% body fat, thriving relationships — distills 10 hard-won lessons on skill stacking, optimization, environment design, sales, wealth-building, delayed gratification, quitting strategically, and calendar honesty.

Contents

- 🎯 Rule 1: Stop Trying to Be Well-Rounded — Be Obsessively One-Dimensional First
- 💊 Rule 2: Life Is Not a Drug-Tested Sport
- 🧠 Rule 3: Discipline Is for Amateurs
- 💪 Rule 4: Your Body Is a Business Asset
- 💰 Rule 5: Learn to Sell Before Almost Anything
- 📈 Rule 6: Stop Optimizing Expenses — Obsess Over Earning
- ⌚ Rule 7: Make Decisions Your Future Self Would Be Proud Of
- 🚪 Rule 8: Learn to Quit
- 📅 Rule 9: Your Calendar Is a Lie Detector
- 🏆 Rule 10: Every Year Out of Shape Quietly Steals Opportunities

🎯 Rule 1: Stop Trying to Be Well-Rounded — Be Obsessively One-Dimensional First 0:26

- Brandon's current breadth — YouTube empire, four businesses, 15,000+ online business students helped — came from sequential skill-building, not parallel
 - He did not get good at all things simultaneously
- The Spinning Plates Analogy:
 - A circus performer doesn't try to spin all plates at once
 - He gets one plate spinning, then the next, then the next
 - Only once one is going does he start the next
 - That's the model for skill acquisition
- The 1,000-Hour Framework (his core metric):
 - 100 hours →