- 💰 Problem: Wanting to Make More Money
- 🎯 Problem: Can't Stay Focused
- 🚫 Problem: Keeps Making Excuses
- 💪 Problem: Wants to Build Confidence

💰 Problem: Wanting to Make More Money 0:00

- Book recommended: The Psychology of Selling by Brian Tracy
- Core insight: you cannot simply "make" money — other people have to choose to give it to you
 - That transfer only happens when you can persuade them, i.e., when you know how to sell
- Key claim: "If you know how to sell, you'll never go broke. You'll always be in high demand."

🎯 Problem: Can't Stay Focused 0:22

- Book recommended: The One Thing by Gary Keller
- Root cause identified: trying to do too many things at once and getting distracted by new opportunities
- Gary Keller's core framework: identify the single thing that will "make everything else easier or unnecessary"
 - Then dedicate 4 hours a day, 7 days a week exclusively to that one thing
- Brandon's verdict: "If you do that, you won't fail."

🚫 Problem: Keeps Making Excuses 0:44

- Book recommended: Never Settle by David Goggins
- Intended mindset shift: move from "seeing how much you can get away with" to "seeing how much you can push yourself"

- Framed as a perspective reset rather than a tactical guide

Problem: Wants to Build Confidence 0:44

- Book recommended: Awaken the Giant Within by Tony Robbins
- Personal testimony: Brandon read it at age 17 and says it changed his life
- Root cause of low confidence explained through an analogy:
 - Low confidence usually stems from repeatedly breaking promises you make to yourself
 - Analogy: imagine a friend who tells you every day they'll do something for you but never follows through — eventually you lose all trust in that person
 - "That person is you." Failing to keep self-made commitments destroys self-trust, which shows up as lack of confidence
- Promised outcome: "This book has set you straight and put you on the right path."

The biggest insight: confidence is a byproduct of keeping promises to yourself — every broken self-commitment silently erodes your trust in your own word.
